foreword

Engine '53 has chugged slowly to a stop after its year's journey through the land of Harpeth Hall. As you, the passengers, descend into the fields of summer, perhaps you would like to enjoy your travels once more in retrospect. The train, however, moved swiftly; perhaps you remember only a blur of landscape flying past. But in this MILESTONES, you will find the sharp images which memory alone denies you—pictures which will stand out against the blur of days passed and scenes forgotten. As you turn its pages, you may travel again the well-loved journey of Engine '53. So, for the rekindling of your memory, we present to you the MILESTONES of 1953.

To Miss Kuykendall, whose support is the strength of many student organizations, whose willing assistance has made this annual possible, and whose guidance has rendered immeasurable benefits, not only to her own pupils, but to all who have touched her understanding—to Miss Kuykendall, whose contribution to the spirit of Harpeth Hall is as great as the sincere gratitude of her students, MILESTONES of 1953 is dedicated.

dedication

mrs. souby

We thank Mrs. Souby

Every student who has entered her office, awed and a little bewildered, knows that gratitude to Mrs. Souby is gratitude for security—security that comes from capable administration, security that springs from her willingness to take each girl's problem and to return it solved. Service of this nature is "beyond the line of duty" and, as such, is often rewarded with medals and decorations. But the giving of security deserves a more lasting recompense—appreciation. We, therefore, thank Mrs. Souby for being the director of our school.

In '52-'53 the Angkor Club had an exciting and triumphant year. Ideals of sportsmanship, scholarship, and citizenship were emphasized, and Angkor took many honors. Both gay and serious meetings were held, and worth-while projects as well as parties were enjoyed.

As the athletic program began this fall, the Angkor teamwork and high spirit helped to capture the hockey trophy. Angkor sports enthusiasts were Cynthia Hastings, Ann Benton, Florence Stumb, Ellen Wills, and Ellen Russell.

Angkor was represented in the Honor Society by Peggy Casparis, the president; Mary Rose Bradford, and Gloria Mayer. It boasted of Penstaff members Martha Grizzard, Margaret Oliver, Mary Rose Bradford, Peggy Smith, Gloria Mayer, and Sandra Ragland. Peggy Smith, Joanne Hooper, and Gloria Mayer were on the MILESTONES staff.

Many campus leaders were members of the club. Among these were Mary Rose Bradford, vice-president of the student council; Martha Grizzard and Joanne Hooper, Junior Class officers; and Peggy Casparis and Gloria Mayer, Senior Class officers.

In every way the Angkor Club carried the blue and white banner to success this year.

The Ariston Club has just completed a highly successful year in the fields of scholarship, citizenship, and athletics.

Scholastically the club was tops with Ruth Gay Robbins, Ruth Eleanor Corn, and Katharine Jarratt holding membership in the Honor Society, and Betty Pirtle, Ruth Eleanor Corn, and Katharine Jarratt representing the group in the Penstaff Club.

When campus elections came along, Ariston girls took many honors. Amelia Spickard was elected to preside over the Student Council, Susan Moore was chosen to be president of the Senior Class, and Ruth Eleanor Corn was appointed to edit the MILESTONES.

On the hockey field, the tennis court, and baseball diamond, Ariston was a real threat in sports competition. Nancy Bauman, Florence Fletcher, Carol Lansden, Ray Napier, and Joanne Manley were outstanding in this field.

The Ariston girls kept their spirit high, and satisfaction and success crowned the efforts of the gold and white in 1952-53.

The Eccowasin Club took an active part in all fields of activity at Harpeth Hall in '52 and '53, which resulted in a victorious year for each member.

Throughout the year, scholastic rating was high. Lisa Luton, Polly Akin, Polly Jordan, Betty Lou White, and Dede Bullard were Penstaff Club members, and Polly Jordan also held membership in the Honor Society.

The green and white waved high at election time when the Athletic Association chose as its officers Connie Stevens, Jane Blackwelder, and Betty Lou White, all Eccowasins. Polly Jordan was elected Secretary of the Student Council and Business Manager of the MILESTONES. Betty Lou White, Mary Faith Templeton, Margaret Robinson, and Ann Bradford helped to lead their classes by serving as officers. Ann Bradford was also president of the Speech Club, and Mary Schlater led the Chemistry Club.

In sports Eccowasin girls held their own by emphasizing teamwork, spirit, and sportsmanship.

Thus, by such enthusiastic participation, the Eccowasins may well agree that this was a banner year.

Achievement and success marked the Triad Club's calendar for the past school year.

Many outstanding figures on the campus sported the Triad red and white. Carolyn Carmichael, Nancy Hardison, Celeste Morrison, Harriette Husband, and Anne Kirkpatrick served as class officers. Anne Kirkpatrick, Jane Clark, and Betty Brothers represented the group on the athletic board. Sally Estes and Sally Ann Brothers worked on the staff of MILESTONES.

When game time rolled around, Triad was often out front with Eve Loser, Betsy Riddle, Catherine Browder, and Ann Huddleston competing for athletic honors.

Many scholars wore the Triad colors. Sally Estes was a member of the Penstaff Club, and Suzanne Smith and Betty Hunt were in the Honor Society.

The well-known Triad spirit was also shown through the wholehearted participation in the charitable projects undertaken at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The year 1952-53 was acclaimed by all the Triads as a most profitable year.

The Student Council, composed of its officers and two representatives from each class, is the governing body of Harpeth Hall. This Council assists in setting up the standards and regulations of the school and sees that they are upheld at all times. The Athletic Association is a very active organization, offering each student a well-rounded program in sports. The Association sponsors tournaments and furnishes the letters and trophies distributed as final awards. These tournaments help achieve the aim of the club—to promote sportsmanship and friendly competition among the clubs and classes. Every girl on the campus is a member of the Athletic Association; but, to become an active member, she must win either a varsity letter or three club letters.

Working in co-operation with the English department, the Penstaff Club tries to stimulate an interest in creative writing and to develop an appreciation of literature. Its members, chosen from the student body during annual contests, meet twice a month to share their literary efforts and to offer constructive criticism. These meetings, as well as the various entertainments sponsored by Penstaff, encourage students who desire to develop their creative ability.

During its first year as an organization at Harpeth Hall, the Junior Classical League has done much to encourage interest in the Latin language. Meetings held twice a month help each girl to appreciate more fully the culture of the ancient Romans. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Ottarson and Miss Mims, the Latin Club offered programs not only interesting and informative but also enjoyable.

This year, under the able leadership of Mrs. Robert Terry, the Glee Club has added much to the musical appreciation of each member, as well as to that of the student body. Inspiring assembly programs were presented at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. The Glee Club's final performance was given at commencement in honor of the graduating Seniors.

The Chemistry Club, a branch of the Science Clubs of America, was one of the largest organizations on the campus this year. Under the able leadership of its president, Mary Schlater, and its sponsor, Miss Mountfort, it engaged in many interesting projects, among which was the annual trip to the American Museum of Atomic Energy at Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

The Biology Club, affiliated with the Scientific Clubs of America, had a most profitable year. Varied activities enjoyed by the members were blood typing and informative museum and field trips. Participating in these projects helped to create in the members an interest in biology.

The purpose of the French Club is to promote an interest in the customs and language of France; therefore, it is open to any student who believes she may benefit by the organization. The meetings were conducted entirely in French, and everyone enjoyed singing French songs, playing French games, seeing beautiful slides of France, and becoming more familiar with French customs. Inspired by Madame Fountain, each French enthusiast spent a profitable year.

Throughout the year, the Spanish Club has endeavored to further interest in the customs and language of Spain and Latin America through a series of programs on Spanish dress, music, and festivals. Of the many club activities, the most colorful was the Christmas fiesta at Anna Lou Clark's home. Members attended in Spanish costumes and, following a typical Spanish dinner, gathered beneath a gaily decorated pinata.
